Strong Clinical Evidence

In 2007, 3M sponsored a health economic study — the largest done at that time — for incontinence dermatitis prevention and found that use of Cavilon No Sting Barrier Film three times weekly is as effective in preventing incontinence-associated dermatitis as products that require application after each episode of incontinence.* The same study found that a skin damage prevention regimen using Cavilon No Sting Barrier Film three times per week had a significantly lower total cost than other product regimens.*
